100-seat lounge proposed for lower Main Street

If the Bethel sewer system gets State approval for additional hook-ups, and if the Bethel Planning Board approves a plan for a new 48-foot by 96-foot building on lower Main Street, the town might have a new restaurant and lounge.

The project, called Bethel Depot, is the brainchild of Joe Gaidis, owner of Martha's Restaurant. Mr. Gaidis had presented an earlier version of the plan to the board last month. That version envisioned only an enlarged Martha's, a few office spaces, and an antiques loft.

In the version presented to the board last Wednesday night, Mr. Gaidis said he would like to develop a 100-seat lounge in the basement of the proposed two-story building. On the first floor would be the new 98-seat restaurant plus a number of office spaces; and on the second floor—as originally planned—would be the antiques loft, where various antique dealers would be invited to display their wares.

The present Martha's Restaurant would be razed to make room for an extensive parking area in front of the proposed building. With parking in the front as well as in the rear, there would be a total of 99 parking spaces. Mr. Gaidis calculated that the Site Plan Review Ordinance formula for parking spaces would dictate 98 spaces.

"The plan can't go forward unless the sewer thing is resolved."

Joe Gaidis

Whereas the present restaurant has just one bathroom, the new building would have a total of six. Given the state of affairs with the municipal sewer (the town has yet to come to an agreement with the State on paying a fine and being allowed to start repairs while taking on new sewer customers), the new bathrooms would currently present a problem. "The plan can't go forward unless the sewer thing is resolved," Mr. Gaidis told the board.

For the time being, that's as far as the discussion got.

The board also heard a brief presentation by John Wheeler, representing Ripley & Fletcher Co., the prospective owner of Charles Merrill's Charlie's Gulf station, on Railroad Street. Mr. Wheeler said the immediate plans are to operate the station as it has been operated, although the fuel oil business at the company's Main Street location would be moved to the new location.

Mr. Wheeler said there are no immediate plans to develop a convenience store, as some have speculated. The station will continue to offer a small variety of food and snack items, as it does now.

VALEDICTORIAN Bryce Gartrell told fellow graduates he sometimes wondered if he were crazy to have put up with the never-ending interaction demanded of his education at Gould. In the end he decided it had helped him know himself better.

If the new owners want to develop that portion of the business further, he would go through the proper channels at that time, he assured the board.

For the present, no permits are needed because no major changes are in the offing, and the board voted, 5-0, in affirming that that was the case. (Board members Donna Remington and Ginger Kelly were absent.)

With little discussion, the board voted 5-0 to approve the Subdivision application of Jim Westcott. He had requested to subdivide his lot on Bird Hill Road, across the road from the already approved Bahre subdivision. The board decided that an abutter's concern about depletion of underground water resources was not

Chamber hosting forum on river color dispute

The Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce will hold a public forum on the Androscoggin River color issue on Tuesday, June 13, at 7 p.m., in the Telstar High School lecture hall.

Speakers have been invited from both Boise Cascade and James River, from the Environmental Protection Agency, and from the Friends of the Androscoggin. State Representative Jeff Mills (D-Bethel) has also been asked to speak.

Anyone who has questions about this issue and wants to know more about it is encouraged to attend.

72 graduate at Gould Academy

At Gould Academy's Commencement Exercises, held Saturday in Bingham Auditorium, Dr. Michael Broom, of Johns Hopkins University, told the members of Gould's 133rd graduating class that each of them was extraordinary in his or her own way and that nothing is more important than to recognize the "extraordinariness" in all people.

Dr. Broom's message struck a strong chord with the senior class, many of whom had worked with him during the National Training Laboratory (NTL) program held at Gould in March.

Valedictorian Bryce Gartrell's address made reference to the strong impact that programs such as NTL had made on the Class of 1989, and how the experience of the class was truly one of a kind. He also noted that living in such close proximity with one another day in and day out tends to strip away a person's superficiality and reveal the inner reality—to friends and to oneself.

Following the presentation of the commencement awards, Alan Ordway, president of the Gould Academy Board of Trustees, granted the diplomas, with Headmaster William Clough.

Reverend Jean Bass delivered the invocation and benediction, while Mary Valentine played the organ processional and recessional.

The senior award winners, aside from the valedictorian, were as follows:

- Honor plaque (average of 90 or above for their years at Gould): Bethany Allen, Bryce Gartrell, Jaben Kilbourn, Mark Stimpson, Alexander Penn.
- National Honor Society: Bethany Allen, Courtney Burnell, Paige Christie, Heidi Dixon, Amy Ford, Bryce Gartrell, Todd Kim, Laura Ordway, Andrew Spofford.

Departmental book prizes were awarded as follows:

- English: Paige Christie;
- History: Bryce Gartrell;
- Pre-Calculus: Bryce Gartrell;
- Advanced Biology: Doug von Hollen;
- Honors Chemistry: James Henderson;
- Honors Physics: Heidi Dixon;
- Physics: Mark Stimpson;
- Spanish: Todd Kim;
- Latin: Mark Stimpson;
- Pottery: Patrice Leary;
- Senior Art: Rebecca Margonelli;
- Performing Arts: Courtney Burnell and Brenna Stimpson;
- Other awards included:
- Gayle A. Foster Photography Award: Doug von Hollen;
- Frances Hook Scholarship Fund: Amanda Little;
- Art Department Purchase Award: Bethany Allen and Benjamin Michaud;
- Banker Lacrosse Trophy: Dean Marvin;
- U.S. Naval Academy Selection: James Henderson;

EXHULTANT GOULD ACADEMY GRADUATES pour out of Bingham Auditorium following Commencement Exercises Saturday. On the broad lawn in front of the building, members of the Class of 1989 were congratulated by teachers, family and friends. Following a lunch for the Gould community, parents helped their children finish packing, and everyone departed.

- National Hispanic Scholar Award: Bethany Allen;
- Alumni Association Award: Laura Ordway and Bryce Gartrell;
- Linwood "Lindy" Lowell Award: William Daley;
- Elwood Ireland Award: Patrice Leary and Benjamin Michaud;
- Headmaster's Bowl: Bryce Gartrell.

Local mill owner named best in entire northeast

Leon Favreau, president of Bethel Furniture Stock, Inc., received the Outstanding Sawmill Operator Award, given by the Northeastern Loggers' Association (NELA), at that group's recent annual awards banquet in Bangor.

Mr. Favreau was cited for the efficiency of his operation, his outstanding safety record and for his use of technology in maximizing utilization of the resource.

Bethel Furniture Stock uses approximately 3 million board feet of hardwood sawlogs per year to produce glued panels and solid wood bendings for the furniture industry.

The mill, which provides employment for 57, has been significantly expanded and improved over the last several years. An enviable safety record was maintained during this modernization program. Safety was considered with each purchase of new equipment. Management and OSHA worked closely together in instituting safety recommendations. A tag-out procedure is strictly adhered to in the mill, which is constructed of non-combustible materials.

A computer system was introduced in 1980 and has been upgraded five times since. A profit-sharing plan provides incentive for the employees to work safely and produce high-quality products.

Mr. Favreau has been active in industry and community affairs. He is a founding member of the Multiple Use Association, which promotes multiple-use management on the White Mountain

Greenwood selectmen terminate the contract of stump dump manager

In an attempt to get a tighter grip on the town's solid waste disposal process, Greenwood selectmen are developing new guidelines for the operation of the town's stump dump. As part of this process, they have terminated Norman Millett's contract to manage the facility. The termination becomes effective

Mother Nature's signal is too strong for Andover Fire Dept. dispatch radio

A lightning strike last week has added a new item to the warrant for Andover's June 12 special town meeting. Fire Chief Ken Dixon told the town's selectmen that the May 21 thunderstorm knocked out the radio-telephone system used to call out the fire department.

The lightning strike caused an estimated $3,000 in damage to the system, he said.

The system was insured against such damage (with a $50 deductible), but the selectmen must now decide whether to repair the 24-year-old system or to spend the estimated $7,500 it would cost to replace it with a more modern alternative.

They are expected to make a recommendation after meeting with a representative of the insurance company, and to put the matter to voters at the special town meeting.

For the time being, the town's fire department is back on the "red phone" dispatching system. There are far fewer red phones than in the past, Selectwoman Jane Hich said, but the fire department is making a special effort to see that the system is manned at all times.

Welcome to DAK WAM.
You're history.
Your friends,

June 30.

Mr. Millett has managed the stump dump since it was set up in 1983. His contract paid him an hourly wage and allowed him to salvage and sell whatever he could from waste materials left there.

In 1988 he was paid just over $6,000 for operating the dump and for capital improvements he made at the facility.

Marie Bartlett, chairwoman of the Board of Selectmen, said the removal of Mr. Millett from his position was an attempt by the board to develop more effective controls on the town's waste disposal process and costs.

The stump dump has never been properly licensed by the state Department of Environmental Protection, she said, and the selectmen also felt they had insufficient control over its operation.

The board is currently examining its recycling options and attempting to formulate new guidelines for operating the facility, Mrs. Bartlett said.

"We've offered [Mr. Millett] the option of coming in to renegotiate an agreement if he feels he can work within the new guidelines," she said, "but for now we felt it was in the best interest of the town to cancel the current agreement."

"The stump dump is never going to be a money maker," she said, "but we've

Newry town meeting approves ordinances and Fire Dept. funds

The twenty-five Newry voters who turned out for a special town meeting Tuesday evening took just over an hour to approve all six articles on the meeting warrant.

The articles, all of which were passed unanimously, include the approval of a new sign ordinance for the town, amending a number of existing ordinances, and approval to spend $7500 from the fire department fund for capital equipment items.

The sign ordinance covers all new signs visible from a public way and erected after enactment of the ordinance, and all existing signs which are changed in lettering, size, construction, location or lighting.

All such sign work now requires approval of the code enforcement officer and payment of a $10 fee.

Les Otter, chairman of the Ordinance Review Committee, described the ordinance as an attempt to eliminate large exterior neon signs, excessive signage, overly tall signs and signs which would pose a traffic or safety hazard.

Signs which are inside a window are not covered by the ordinance, he said, even when they are clearly visible outside the building, nor are signs which cannot be seen from the public road.

"If you want to put up a large neon sign out behind the barn, that's your business," he said.

Voters also approved revisions of the town's ordinances on general assistance, road standards, building codes and shoreline zoning.

The amended shoreline zoning ordinance now gives the town authority to review proposed bridges or crossings on both the Sunday River and Bear River. Such structures must now be designed by a professional engineer.

Opinions

A note from the publisher

Bethel's sewer problem backed up to the source of the problem last week—not figuratively and literally. While past generations of town officials were the ones who got the town into its present mess by not taking care of the sewer plant problems at the very beginning, the present generation of officials (and sewer users) are being forced to pay the price for the sins of the fathers.

And the present residents of the Cole Block—the town office building—were the ones on whom the sewer problems backed up last week. And, once again, it wasn't their fault.

This time it was the fault of the CMP contract crews installing new poles and new power lines on Main Street. It turns out that the beautiful new pole they placed in front of the Cole Block went right through the sewer line between the building and the sewer main.

That meant a bit of shuffling for regular users of bathrooms in the town office, W. J. Wheeler and The Citizen. Print's was kind enough to allow use of its facilities. It also meant that any work in The Citizen print shop requiring water—such as washing plates or processors—had to be put off until the taps could again be opened.

To their credit, the pole crews—assisted by town crews—got things sorted out, the sewer line replaced and the pole moved, in just over a day.

Town Manager Rodney Lynch says he will be sending CMP a bill for the work put in by the town crews.

The Citizen will be sending CMP a bill for knocking out the electronic brain of our cutting machine. This happened the day after the sewer was repaired. The CMP crews shut down power to the Cole Block Thursday morning, and when they had strung their new cable and re-energized us, they did it phase by phase on the 3-phase 220-volt line, putting our 3-phase cutter out of commission. It's still not repaired, so please bear with us if you find we're late delivering a printing job.

Many of you who have seen this summer's tourism tabloid (included in last week's Citizen) have commented on the front cover—two campers paddling down a lovely Androscoggin River.

Androscoggin River? Lovely? Well, if you don't sniff it, and if you don't look too closely at its color, it is lovely.

Unfortunately, if you're paddling on it, you can't help smelling its fouled waters or noticing its brownish hue. And why is it that way? So the paper companies can pad their profits. Those of us demanding the paper mills clean up their discharges are not saying the mills must go, only that they must not use our rivers as their sewers. It is not theirs to contaminate willfully and without regard for others.

Mary and I have canceled the Androscoggin the past four summers, and despite its color, odor and foam, we still prefer it to the Saco, with its crowds and uninteresting landscape. A couple of weeks ago we paddled—as we have in the past—from Shelburne to Bethel, in company with Carol and Dick Crandall. Even with a lunch break on a small island, we made a very quick trip of it—four hours—because the extremely high water was running very fast.

Letters to the editor

To the Editor:

Aye, tear her tattered ensign down, long has it waved on high, for many a heart has longed to see that banner in the sky. These immortal words by Oliver Wendell Holmes came to mind when I read some comments in reference to the Bethel Airport—Col. Dyke Field.

Col. Dyke and a passenger perished in a plane crash, exact cause unknown. It must have been a very sad day, not only for the two immediate families, but for the entire community of Bethel. It is with this writing that I should like to pen a few lines about a good man and a great aviator.

Col. Dyke first enlisted in the Royal Canadian Air Force. (The United States was not engaged in World War II yet.) There he became a qualified pilot. When the United States entered the war after Pearl Harbor, Col. Dyke immediately transferred to the United States Army Air Corps. Col. Dyke flew just about every type of aircraft, but it was in the large aircraft—like bombers, troop transports and cargo planes—that he excelled, flying many thousands of hours during the war. Some of his most dangerous missions were in the CBI (China-Burma-India) theater. This involved flying "The Hump," as it was called by the pilots. "The Hump" contains some of the most rugged mountain terrain in the world. The famous Burma Road curved in and out of these mountains. During that time, this road was the lifeline for hundreds of thousands of troops fighting in that southeast Asia region. Col. Dyke flew for almost two years in this region.

As an aviator, he distinguished himself not only during the war, but immediately after the war. When the USSR tried to take over Germany, and especially the City of Berlin, the United States and her allies had to fly in all of the food and supplies for a beleaguered city. Again Col. Dyke got involved. He flew countless missions. This went on night and day until the Russians lifted their ban and ground traffic was allowed.

I'm delighted to see that the Chamber of Commerce is getting involved in the river problem by hosting a forum next week. Invited to speak on the issue of pollution will be local experts, a representative from the paper industry, and a representative from the DEP. This is a forum that everyone should be interested in. Congratulations to the Chamber for sponsoring it.

Petitions are being filled in around town suggesting former Police Officer Rickie Osgood for the vacant police chief's position. As far as I know, Rickie hasn't applied for the position, but there's still time.

Rickie would be a strong candidate in that he's local, he's dedicated, and he's got a few years experience on the local force. It's too early to tell if he would be the best candidate—until all the applications are in—but he would certainly be among the best. He should certainly apply.

The town manager and selectmen seem to be going about the police chief selection process in a much more direct fashion this time around. Last time, following the retirement of former Chief Bob Stearns, town officials turned the process over to the Maine Municipal Association. The process took forever. And since it was all done behind closed doors, townspeople really had no idea what was going on until about eight months and $2,600 later—when the new chief was announced.

This time around, not only will the selection committee be beefed up with the addition of three citizens-at-large, but the town office will coordinate the search instead of the MMA.

Moreover, because of a court ruling last year, The Citizen will have access to the resumes of the candidates so that townspeople can get a first-hand look at the selection process.

I should point out, however, that the MMA considers it their greatest responsibility in this session of the Legislature to get a law making the resumes of candidates for municipal jobs confidential. And not just the resumes. The MMA wants even the names of the candidates kept secret.

Unless there's a hue and cry from the populace, the MMA—with the backing of the McKernan administration—will get what it wants from the Legislature. Then we taxpayers—who pay the salaries of these municipal officials—will again be placed in the dark concerning the manner of their selection.

One thing that really drives me up the wall is juvenile behavior, particularly when resorted to by anyone but a juvenile. Whether it's an athlete doing an Iggy shuffle or a politician blaming his problems on the media, I always wonder how these people can have gotten where they are without ever growing up.

Now, right in our own backyard, the wonderful signpost in Lynchville has been defaced by vandals. It's a wonder the culprit (or culprits) had the intelligence to know how to get the top off the can of black spray paint.

Everyone wants to have his or her 15 minutes of fame, which is fine. But those with no ability, and little regard for the ability of others, often resort to spilling something in order to leave their own mark on it. "Hi Mom, look at me. I just messed up this sign."

If the culprits are found, I would hope they will be told in no uncertain terms to grow up.

Soon after that, he came home to fly with the Strategic Air Command. His missions took him all over the globe. Col. Dyke was one of the top commanders in the bomber command.

When he retired, he returned to his beloved Bethel. He had served his country with high honors, but it wasn't long before he, along with some other dedicated Bethel citizens, began to think about the then small dirt strip that was called Bethel airport. Col. Dyke started writing and traveling to the FAA, to place Bethel on the charts and maps. The Bethel airport, as it became, was finally placed within the vast network of charts, maps, logs, etc., within the FAA system, for all pilots. The history of the growth of the airport is better written by the Town of Bethel and the Board of Selectmen, as the entire town then started to be involved, and it is with the realization of today that the new runway is finally built. The Town of Bethel deserves praise for its action and determination.

When Col. Dyke perished, the Town Fathers, in their wisdom, voted to place the name of Col. Dyke with the Bethel airport. I believe that in doing this they were honoring a Bethel citizen, an aviator, a man who dedicated his entire life to aviation, a man who fought the good fight.

Sen. Bill Cohen says...

Shopping for an aircraft carrier or a helicopter is no small undertaking. These and other high-technology items must meet demanding specifications spelled out in advance by the Department of Defense (DOD).

But evidence suggests that Pentagon officials, perhaps the biggest buyers in the federal government, are applying these same rigid standards to more everyday items, at the expense of taxpayers who are feeling the effects in their pocketbook.

By subjecting such items as nuts and bolts, clothing and appliances to the same complex requirements it sets for sophisticated military supplies, the Defense Department loses out in two ways. It overpays and it discourages capable companies from doing business with Uncle Sam.

Take the example of the Maine Glove Company, in Houlton, which makes ordinary dress and work gloves and sells them to civilian agencies in the government. The firm would like to do business with the Pentagon but has determined that it isn't worth the costs involved to meet the excessive specifications set by DOD.

Company officials don't understand DOD's requirement that its suppliers use a particular type of stitching machine that dates to the 1920s and is hardly used any longer in the commercial glove industry. They estimate they could cut the costs for dress and work gloves for DOD by 20-30 percent, without loss of quality, if the specifications were changed to allow other types of stitching.

The Extension Line...

from the Univ. of Maine Extension Service

Anger is a natural emotion for all people at one time or another. The goal is not to deny or suppress these feelings, but to accept them and learn to direct them into a constructive means to an end. Too often youth and adults try to hide or repress their anger only to explode at a later time. We need to express our feelings when they first appear.

This thought process pertains to all of our emotions and our kids' feelings. Parents need to encourage their children to express all of their feelings and can model acceptable ways of doing this. As adults we need to respond correctly to overly aggressive behavior in children.

To do this, we need to understand the motivation behind the behavior. The anger may be an expression to avoid feelings of pain, it may be expressed with disrespect, or covering feelings of low self-esteem, loneliness or anxiety because of a certain situation. In early childhood parents and teachers can be expressive in similar ways. Parents need to recognize this and work with their child to learn the difference.

Parents need to understand that an angry child/teen needs support and respect. Our actions should be motivated to teach our children and not a desire to punish. Clearly communicate what you expect of your children. Contrary to what many parents believe, punishment is not the most effective way to teach children our expectations of them. Emphasis should be placed on the good behavior. For example, when a teenager acts responsibly and impresses you, tell them, don't wait for a problem situation to say, "Why are you acting so childish and spoiled; I thought you grew up," or "Act your age."

Express interest in your children's activities and tell them when you feel proud of them. Encourage your children to be proud of themselves.

In an angry situation, ease the tension with humor or show your support emotionally or physically (show of affection: hug). At times, all a child or teenager may need to regain control is a break or sudden show of caring.

music when they enter Telstar Middle School. If they want to have three grades in Junior High why don't they move the 6th Grade to Crescent Park School and the 8th Grade to Telstar Middle School. This will put Telstar on the same shaly soil of music like most, if not all, of the other high schools in the state. I believe that this will be a lot better for everyone. Like I said, this is my opinion.

Another case of bureaucratic excess are the government specifications for hand towels, which are 18 pages long and require a precise weave, number of stitches, measure of shrinkage and absorption rates.

And there are countless other examples of unnecessarily complicated specifications that require five cent "O-rings" to have a $2 box, increasing the cost of this tiny item for the government 40 times. At a hearing on Pentagon procurement practices held last week by the Senate Governmental Affairs Oversight Subcommittee, I argued that these practices stifle competition by limiting contracts to the few companies that can meet the requirements.

Too often DOD requires contractors to reinvent a military-specification-wheel when a commercially available one would perform that task just as well.

There are, of course, many legitimate instances when the Pentagon requires highly sophisticated items built to detailed military specifications. But for less specialized items, discouraging commercial vendors from doing business with the Pentagon through arcane specifications, mazes of cumbersome contract clauses and excessively burdensome data requirements serves no one—not the small business that wants to supply the government, not the service men or woman who could have state-of-the-art equipment delivered faster and more easily, and especially not the taxpayer—who ultimately pays more for over-specified items that could be bought at a much lower price.

Don't hide your feelings, express them openly and honestly.

If a young person is dramatically angry, there may be times that you will need to use physical restraint to avoid any danger. If the anger is very violent and recurring, outside help or counseling may be the best solution.

It is okay to say "no." Mean it, and set limits that are clearly explained and enforced.

Accept your child's feelings of anger or other emotions and let them know that these feelings don't change how you feel and value your child.

Use punishment cautiously and sparingly. Parents with good discipline skills create an atmosphere of quiet firmness, clarity and respect while using reasoning. Bad discipline involves punishment that is harsh and inappropriate, including verbal ridicule that attacks the child's integrity. This leads to a mutual disrespect and can lead to rebellion.

Model appropriate behavior and don't be afraid of your own mistakes.

Talk to your children, teach them to express themselves verbally. Be open, honest and clear with your own feelings. Respect them and treat them as you would expect and want to be treated yourself.

After Governor McKernan's veto approval of his death knell, a bill designed to add some enforcement teeth to Maine's Clean Water Act is still alive—although just barely.

The measure, sponsored by Rep. John M. Nutting (D-Leeds), would set standards to sound its death knell, a bill designed to add some enforcement teeth to Maine's Clean Water Act is still alive—although just barely.

Actually, there is a law already on the books restricting the discharge of toxic substances that create discolored, odor or foam, and thereby lower the quality of water for fishing and other recreational uses. It was enacted about four years ago as a section of Maine's Clean Water Act. The only problem with the law is that it has no standards of water quality were defined in the act, thereby rendering this section unenforceable.

Nutting's legislation would establish those standards, as well as a definite timetable under which paper companies would be brought into conformity in a step-by-step process spanning a three-year period. The proposal is based on a 10-month study conducted by the state's Department of Environmental Protection at the request of the governor.

Opponents to the legislation complained that the collective price tag of $90-150 million was excessive. Supporters countered that this was a mere drop in the bucket compared to the paper companies' aggregate profit of more than $2.4 billion rolled up in 1988.

The Governor maintained that the issue needed further study and said he would prefer to wait until next year's legislative session. Backers retorted that the governor's own department had done a thorough study and had produced a

The next meeting will be Thursday, June 1, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Featured speaker will be Richard W. Judd, assistant professor of history at the University of Maine, Orono. His topic will be "Mills, Markets and Techniques: Lumbering in Maine, 1820-1920."

A native of Michigan, Dr. Judd received his undergraduate education at California State University, Fullerton, as well as an M.A. there as well. His Ph.D. was earned at the University of California, Irvine, in addition to his responsibilities at the University of Maine. Dr. Judd is editor of the "Maine Historical Society Quarterly."

A former associate editor of the "Journal of Forest History," he completed a post-doctoral fellowship at the University of Maine, where he completed the research on his recently published book, "Aroostook: A Century of Logging in Northern Maine, 1831-1931," published by the University of Maine Press.

Dr. Judd is a historical consultant for the Maine Forest and Logging Museum, Inc. and serves on the editorial board of the "Journal of Forest History." He is also a trustee of the Maine Historical Society and editor-in-chief of the Maine History Textbook Project. In addition to forest history, his interests include Maine tourism and urban socialism, two areas he has published widely. Anyone interested in hearing Dr. Judd's presentation is cordially invited to attend.

Winners in Division III (Grades 5 and 6) were: 1st, Angela Sente, Grade 6, AES; 2nd, Samantha Poland, Grade 6, CFS; 3rd, Kevin Mullin, Grade 6, WES.

Winners received certificates of award, ribbons, plus cash prizes. The show is supported in part by a donation from the Bethel Savings Bank, where Mrs. Taylor was employed prior to her death in 1972.

Dr. Moses Mason's 200th birthday was observed on Sunday, May 28, at the Dr. Moses Mason House. A large cake celebrating the anniversary was served. It was made by Diane Howe. Strawberry punch was served from the winter kitchen by Persis Post. Once again, Ernest and Betty Perkins portrayed the doctor and his wife Agnes. Judith Haskell, head of the Society's Museum Committee, acted as hostess and provided tours of the house to those wishing them.

Craft projects to those wishing them. Craft demonstrators included Lorrie Hoch knitting and Althea Stevens spinning. Helen Morton sketched and painted from the upstairs landing. A special exhibit on Dr. Mason's 200th anniversary—Celebration 200—was placed in the entrance to the museum and Society Directory Stanley R. Howe, author of the Society booklet, "Dr. Moses Mason and His House," made a presentation on Dr. Mason, stressing his role as town patriarch.

LOOKING BACKWARD
10 Years Ago: State YMCA officials met with a group of Bethel people to see if a YMCA program could be established in Bethel. Norman Ferguson III, of Hanover, was awarded a B.A. from Bowdoin College. Peter Thurston, of Bethel, received a B.A. in History and Geography from the University of New Hampshire. Levi Brown was awarded a B.S. degree at Plymouth State College.

Deaths: Daniel K. Smith, Catherine Wright. Marriages: Clark Martin and Carla Morgan.

20 Years Ago: "Innovation, Education and Progress" was the topic of the discussion at the 7th Telstar Regional High School auditorium. The speaker was Tracey Gray, division plant manager, American Telephone and Telegraph Co. Four Telstar Regional High School seniors for 1969 were announced as the winners of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sylvester, Sr., of Andover. They included triplets John, Mary and Robert, plus Margaret, who was a year younger.

Births: Tammy Sue Hall, Mary Sue Goff. Marriages: Neil D. Olson and Linda F. Sullivan.

Deaths: Beaulah C. Mason, Guy L. Morrill, H. Beatrice Foster.

30 Years Ago: The home of Fred Angus, North Newry, was extensively damaged by fire. Dr. Willard H. Boynton, former Bethel physician, was home on leave from Vietnam as chief of the health and sanitation division of the Industrial, well-documented report for the Governor to take action. Among its findings, the report pointed out that Maine mills currently dump 558 pounds of materials that contribute to color, odor and foam characteristics of waterways for every 1,000 pounds of paper produced, whereas paper mills in other states discharge only 135 pounds of these substances. Rep. Nutting's proposal would reduce the Maine levels down to 175 pounds of pollutants, still well above that allowed mills elsewhere in the country.

When Gov. McKernan returned the legislation with his veto to the Legislature, it was clear that there was insufficient support for the two-thirds vote to override the Governor's negative action. Consequently, in a parliamentary move to keep the National Ball alive, it was recommitment to the legislative Energy and Natural Resources Committee, where it will be held to await Gov. McKernan's proposed alternative.

got to get a better handle on it." Woodstock shares the use of the Greenwood stump dump and pays half its costs. Woodstock has no voting power regarding stump dump policy, but its selectmen have been meeting with their Greenwood counterparts to study the situation and work on the new guidelines.

Greenwood Selectman Raymond Seames described the stump dump changes as part of a comprehensive attempt to reduce town expenses. "We're looking at any and all ways of saving money," he said.

The selectmen are also working on new guidelines for the town's tax assessor, Mr. Seames said, with an eye towards getting tax bills out earlier.

If the bills go out earlier, the collections should come in earlier, he said, and this would save the town money on interest expenses for its tax anticipation notes. Interest payments are expected to cost the town approximately $17,000 this year, he said, although that cost is partially offset by interest earned on the invested portion of the funds.

The term of Herb Dunham, the current town assessor, is due to expire July 1. The selectmen have not reached a decision on retaining or replacing him, they said.

Mr. Dunham, like Mr. Millett, is a former town selectman. Mr. Dunham was defeated in a re-election attempt at town meeting this year; Mr. Millett was defeated in his re-election bid the year before.

warranted since only one extra household was being created.

The board voted, 5-0, to approve the Site Plan Review application of Don and Linda Best, who plan to add an ice cream shop at the back of their Bethel Craft-works shop on Main Street. The board looked carefully at the off-street parking that would be available for the existing shop, an upstairs apartment and the proposed ice cream shop, and decided the eight parking spaces were adequate.

The next meeting of the board will be June 7. This is a change. The meeting would normally fall on June 14, but that is the night of Town Meeting. The most important item on the June 7 agenda is the application of the Gleichen Co., of Portland, to develop a subsidized housing project off Mason Street.

The board is desperately seeking new members to serve. There will be three vacancies coming up this summer. Anyone interested in serving on the Planning Board should contact the town office.

Rotary Club notes

The Bethel Rotary Club met for its regular weekly breakfast meeting Tuesday, May 30.

Jim Horowitz, from the Oxford County Regional Airport, was the guest speaker. He talked about the services offered there and about the increased technology acquired in aviation in the last few years. It was a very interesting presentation.

The Rotary Bike-a-thon is scheduled for this Saturday, June 3. For information, contact Melinda Remington or Steve Wright.

International Cooperative Administration's mission to Vietnam. Wallace and Frances Saunders and children were spending several weeks in Hawaii visiting Rev. and Mrs. Burton Linscott and family. The road leading to Sunday River Skiway was bulldozed and rough graded in preparation for gravel application. The 8th Grade of CFS spent an overnight at the Bryant Pond Conservation Camp.

40 Years Ago: Plans were announced for the construction of a 23-inch oil pipeline to supplement the 13-inch pipe laid in 1941 from Portland to Montreal. Fred Hall and Harry Brown purchased the barber shop formerly operated by Harry Swanson. The home of Jennie Brown, in Albany, at the foot of Songo Pond, was destroyed by fire after being struck by lightning. Verna Dyke and children, Sylvia and Alan, left for Germany to join Col. Dyke. An addition doubling the floor space in the dining room at the Roadside Grill (now Martini's) was completed.

Deaths: Mary L. Andrews, Anna Hayes, Mary Foster, Herman Skillings.

50 Years Ago: A forest fire at Upton raged for three days in spite of the efforts of many firefighters. A heavy rainstorm finally stopped it. Ground was broken for the Kellogg store on Railroad Street. Two Montreal ladies were slightly injured when their roadster overturned in Grafton after a tire blew out. Fifty diplomas were conferred at the Gould Academy graduation. During the exercises the academy building was rededicated as Hanscom Hall and the new Holden Hall was also dedicated. Harry Brock, of Stamford, Conn., presented an exhibition of magic at the Grange Hall, for the benefit of the Bethel baseball team.

Deaths: Harry E. Dyer.

Underclass awards presented at Gould

Gould Academy announced its departmental academic award recipients and spring sports award winners at the annual underclassman awards ceremony last Tuesday. Headmaster William P. Clough opened the evening of presentations—both academic and athletic—with a reflection on Henry David Thoreau's comment that "it is our responsibility to mold our bodies so that they become worthwhile objects in nature and fit companions for the soul."

Associate Headmaster Dr. Harry Dresser, presented the academic prizes, noting that throughout the year teachers are constantly pushing students to gain new knowledge and they rarely have time to pause and compliment them for their achievements.

Kevin Davis, son of Jay and Nancy Davis, of Bethel, received the school's highest underclass honor, the Edmund J. Vachon award, given to the member of the junior class who exemplifies outstanding contribution to the school and achievement in the community. The award is named for Headmaster Emeritus Edmund J. Vachon, who served Gould from 1940 until 1967.

Davis received the Rensselaer Award, which is given at 1,000 selected secondary schools in the country to the junior with the highest average in Science and Mathematics. He also received the Calculus, Junior English and Junior History awards.

Martha Newell, of Bethel, was the only sophomore to be elected to the National Honor Society, while juniors Kate Chester, Bretton White, Jennifer Tabor and Alice Colyear were also named.

Departmental awards were given as follows: Freshman English, Susan Crandall and Amanda Wright; Sophomore English, Russel Stein; French I, Jennifer Baldwin; French II, Elizabeth Morris; French III, Oren Murphy; Spanish II, Bretton White; Spanish III, Gabe House; Latin I, Amanda Wright; Algebra I, Bryce Gasser; Geometry, Stephanie Morin; Algebra II, Oren Murphy; Freshman History, Amanda Wright; Sophomore History, Russel Stein; Biology, Martha Newell and Stephanie Morin; Music, Patrick Lingley; Earth Science, Michael Michaud; Chemistry, Monika Burk; Art, Matthew Alexander; Navigation, Andrea Pillsbury; Frances Hook National Art Scholarship Award, Alesia Norling.

NHS honors Telstar's students of the month

The Guidance Office last week announced the National Honor Society's students of the month for April.

Paula Michaud is the senior student-of-the-month. Nominated by her CP Chemistry instructor, Mr. Kersey, she is the daughter of Jerry and Judy Michaud, of Andover. Paula was recognized for her constantly superior work and genuine desire to excel.

Teague Berry, son of Pamela Berry, of Andover, was nominated as the junior student-of-the-month by Mr. Taylor in his French III class. Mr. Taylor notes that Teague has always been prompt with his work and it has improved in quality.

Sophomore student-of-the-month is Becky Hanscom. She is the daughter of David and Christine Hanscom, of West Bethel. She has been nominated by her CP English teacher, Mrs. Melville, for her contributions in class, which are thoughtful and intelligent. She was also nominated by her CP World Studies II teacher, Mr. Morton, for her outstanding effort and 90 on her 12-page final exam.

Brandi Russo has been selected as the freshman student-of-the-month. She is the daughter of Noreen Russo, of Woodstock. She has been nominated by her Math-9 teacher, Mr. Keane, for her 31-point increase in grade. This demonstrates that Brandi can get anything done if she puts her mind to it. Special recognition:

Seniors: Shane York, O.S.L.C.; Mickey Monzo, psychology; George Hayes, 12 VP English; Jamie Blake, AP English. Juniors: Stephanie Percival, CP World War I; Dan Kuzik, O.S.L.C. Sophomores: Althea Stevens, CP2 Biology; Teresa Connell, 10 CP2 English. Freshmen: David Bishop, Health; Shilo Hutchins, 9 CP English; Solai Buchanan, World Studies I.

LOVELL ARTS FAIR AUG. 19

The 14th annual arts and artisans fair, sponsored by the Charlotte E. Hobbs Memorial Library, of Lovell, will be held at the New Suncook School, on Rte. 5 in Lovell, Aug. 19, rain or shine.

The high quality and evident talent in the artistry and workmanship of many objects shown in this all-juried fair is expected to attract regular patrons from many parts of New England as well as summer visitors from farther afield. Its reputation has spread widely since the first fair was held in a local resident's barn in 1976.

Many favorite artists, who enjoy wide reputations, return each year, such as Ken Kanro, well known for his work in pewter and silver, Steven Zeh, a basket maker, and Anda Blyhouwer, a weaver, who are among the 50 exhibitors.

In keeping with the original aim of this fair, it continues to bring as well, new and talented artists to the Lovell area. They will offer a great variety of items, including ceramics and pottery, dried flowers and wreaths, needle works of all kinds, jewelry of silver, pewter and porcelain, wood carvings, water colors, to name a few.

Audrey Clout, of Lovell, is chairwoman of the fair, ably assisted by many other members of the library and local residents.

Used books will be on sale at the library, which is nearby on Rte. 5, during the fair. This includes a varied selection of clean books in good condition. Many children's books will be on sale.

Drawings for a raffle of articles made by exhibitors will be held during the afternoon. Tickets may be purchased locally in advance or before the drawings at the fair itself.

There is no admission charge to the public. For further information write Box 106, Lovell, 04951 or telephone, 207-925-3177, most weekdays, 10-4, Monday and Thursday, 6-8 p.m.

Visitors to the fair, unfamiliar with Lovell, will be rewarded if they take time to explore the town itself. Its great natural beauty includes panoramic views of the mountains of western Maine and New Hampshire and Lake Kezar, which has been compared to some of the most beautiful lakes in the world. It also has many fine old homes. A recently published volume on the architectural history of the county describes over 49 structures in the various parts of Lovell, with illustrations of 22 of them.

The United Society of Shakers is pleased to offer the public a rare opportunity to photograph one of the most scenic spots in Maine. Using the Sabbathday Lake Shaker Village as subject matter, workshop participants will explore various approaches to architectural photography: detail, form versus function and the relationship of buildings to environment. Emphasis will be on building exteriors, but there will be time for some interior work as well.

The instructor for the class will be Jere DeWaters, a photographer from Portland. Mr. DeWaters teaches photography at the University of Maine at Augusta and also conducts many workshops through the Maine Touring Artists Program. For the past three years, he has been making an extensive photographic study of the Sabbathday Lake Shaker community. Exhibitions of this work have been displayed at the Portland School of Art, Bates College and Hancock Shaker Village.

The workshop will take place at the Sabbathday Lake Shaker community located on Route 26 in New Gloucester. It will be held on Saturday, June 3, from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. The cost of the workshop is $20, plus an optional $20 materials fee to cover the cost of a 36 exposure roll of black and white instant slide film. Students should have a basic familiarity with the operation of a 35mm camera.

To register, send a nonrefundable $10 deposit. Enrollment is limited to 15 people, so please register early. For more information contact the United Society of Shakers, Sabbathday Lake, Poland Spring, 04274, 207-926-4597.

The National Honor Society would like to congratulate all the students-of-the-month and those nominees receiving special recognition. They would also like to thank the teachers for taking the time to write their nominations.

A government which calls a woman a criminal because her two-day-old baby dies supposedly from the drugs she ingested before the birth, yet pays for and encourages women to destroy children by the millions while they are in the womb, calling them parts of her body thus subject to whatever she wishes to do, is very contradictory. Is it murder to kill a fetus by what the mother ingests but not by a sharp instrument, saline solution or tearing apart? We pay large sums to those who kill healthy, unborn fetuses and condemn a man who removes life support from a brain dead child so he will not continue to suffer. And we call ourselves civilized.

Tri-Town Rescue
Welcome to summer. It has come so fast. Congratulations to Dan Hammer. He is a Tri-Town member who is graduating from Telstar this week. The service wishes him luck as he pursues a nursing degree at Central Maine Medical Center, in Lewiston, in the fall.

The Auxiliary raised $200 at a public supper last Saturday. The bike-a-thon raised over $600 in pledges. Thanks to everyone who helped make those fundraising events successful.

The Auxiliary will meet Monday, June 5, at the Tri-Town Rescue barn, at Trap Corner. New members are always welcome. They will discuss details of the upcoming calendar sale and the July 4th sale.

PARENT BODY OF SMH MEETS

Over 115 corporators of Western Maine Health Care Corporation (WMHCC) met last Wednesday night at Goldcrest Restaurant for their annual meeting. WMHCC is the parent body of five separate and independent subsidiaries: Stephens Memorial Hospital, Norway; Market Square Health Care Center, South Paris; Chapel Valley Boarding Home, West Paris; Pennesseewassee Land Company, and Trillium, both located in Norway.

New corporators, elected this year, were Monica Adams-Acton, of Oxford; Henry and Andrea Burns, of Waterford; Buckley and Janet Dam, of Norway; Dana Hanley, of Paris; Jeff and Tammy Mills, of Bethel; David and Sharon Proctor, of Oxford; David and Kathy Sutton, of Norway; and Stephen and Elaine Vlachos, of Odsfield.

Directors of WMHCC elected to the board were William L. Medd, M.D., of

Because We Care ...

"Contel has invested $2.7 million during the last five years to expand and improve service in the Bethel area. Much of that investment has been in the latest, high technology equipment designed to make your service even more reliable and worry-free.

"But our only measure of success in providing quality service to you, the Contel customer, is based on your own level of satisfaction with us.

"Hi, I'm Dick Day, your local Contel manager. One of my jobs is to insure you receive quality service that satisfies you. Together with other Contel people, we take pride in the service we provide. More than that, we take pride in the communities we serve. Many of us serve in volunteer organizations, on school boards, and in service organizations because we care about our community.

Janice Kaufman

Janice Kaufman exhibits paintings at new gallery

June 1 marks the opening of Upson Playhouse Antiques' second season and will celebrate the opening of a new art gallery that will share the renovated theater space with antiques and collectibles from many area antiques dealers and local residents. The shop and gallery will be open six days a week, from noon to 7 p.m., closed Tuesdays.

A unique and intimate setting for art work as well as antiques, the Upson Playhouse Antiques shop and gallery is located on Broad Street in Bethel opposite the Bethel Inn in what was once the barn of the Hon. David Hammons, c. 1859. Converted to an elegant music room and theater around 1914 by William J. Upson, traveling Chautauqua shows, chamber music, poetry readings, theater and Punch and Judy shows were offered as entertainment here until about 1935. Some time in the mid-1930s the building was turned into a large garage to house the owner's Rolls Royce cars. And so it remained for 50 years until 1988 when current owner Sally Robinson began restoration of the theater.

Today this building, now known as the Upson Playhouse, retains many of its original features, such as the stage with its proscenium arch, original brass chandeliers, fine quality woodwork and paneling, the fireplace with tragedy and comedy in detailed bas relief, and the lovely tall windows overlooking the gardens of the Hammons House.

Featured this season in the new gallery will be the work of Janice Kaufman, of Bethel and Colebrook, N.H. She describes her life and work as follows: "I was born a few weeks before the bombing of Pearl Harbor. My coming-of-age was set against the social and political upheaval of the '60s. The world of the '70s and '80s is characterized by turmoil, violence and anxieties about the environment. In spite of—or perhaps because of—this sense of upheaval, I seek and find in the act of painting an experience of harmony.

"I have always been an artist. My response to the world has been to draw and paint it, which is what I have been doing since childhood and have continued to do while studying art history at Duke University, working for the New York State Council on the Arts and teaching art.

"Although I spent many years doing large documentary canvasses depicting some of the cataclysmic events of the '60s and early '70s, I have more recently found myself drawn to images that come out of everyday life and my particular environment, which has for 10 years been rural New England.

"As a portrait artist I am always drawn to the particular individual—this person, place, animal or time of day—and the feeling each image evokes. My work is totally personal. I would not paint a subject that did not inspire strong feeling in me.

"Of course, what is right in front of us is compounded of a mixture of what is there and our dreams; if my work has an element of fantasy, that is because, like everyone else, I inhabit a world of

North Paris

By DORIS C. LAWRENCE

Saturday, May 29, the Lawrences visited Mr. and Mrs. Norman Abbott and Mr. and Mrs. Cleon Pinkham. It was 90 degrees in the shade.

Sunday, a good old thundershower. It sure poured.

Joe Vatcher and Fannie Whitten are back from Sidney, Nova Scotia. Madge stayed to go into the hospital for tests.

Everyone is decorating the graves of loved ones. I went to Bryant Pond Wednesday to my brother's lot, then visited niece Ruby Wing, and the Richard Felts.

Callers have been Joe Vatcher and Fannie Whitten, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heath Jr., Stanley Coffin and Odell Heath.

West Paris Senior Citizens don't forget to bring something for a silent auction, June 6, and your place settings.

June 3 is a dance at West Paris Grange Hall, Richard Felt Band.

The "Fat Cats" are meeting every Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. at Mary Emery's at Trap Corner.

I guess Friday, May 12, was a good day for ducks. A lot of damage done. We were at Snow Falls and so many people stopping and taking pictures of the falls.

A wedding reception was held at North Paris Community Hall, May 13. Congratulations to the newlyweds.

Roger LaCroix put in a new light in our kitchen.

Mr. Joe Vatcher went to Massachusetts Tuesday, May 16, to bring his sister, Fannie Whitten, back with him. She likes it here in Maine.

Everyone's forsythia bushes are just gorgeous.

Wow, the past few days have been Fourth of July weather, bugs and all.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Isley had for company John Daney and a foster son, Tom Christman, friend and Jessica.

Callers at the "Root" Lawrences have been Mr. and Mrs. Norman Abbott and Mr. and Mrs. Cleon Pinkham, Mr. and Mrs. Roger LaCroix, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Thayer and Jason, Joe Vatcher and Robert Anderson Jr., from Massachusetts, and Sandra Coffin.

Saturday, May 13, Lucy Robbins stopped in on her way to Oxford Grange dance to leave a beautiful silk corsage from niece Barbara Felt. It was lovely. We visited Polly Lawrence on Mother's Day. I visited Barbara Felt one day; she is feeling better from a good old cold and asthma.

Here is some basic information:

"Books have been extremely important in human history, for they allow people to record information and distribute it to others in a relatively permanent form. Books fall into two categories, fiction and non-fiction. Many book collectors limit themselves to a favorite subject because the field of book collecting is vast."

Thanks to those who have volunteered to watch the museum. Also, thanks to those who have watched sale tables for the Society.

In addition to Ms. Kaufman's paintings, a great variety of antiques are on sale ranging from early American cupboards, quilts, Victorian hanging lamps, silver, clocks, antique linens and collectibles of all sorts. Call 207-824-3170 for more information.

By CONSTANCE BROADBENT

Dear Joan and Paul:

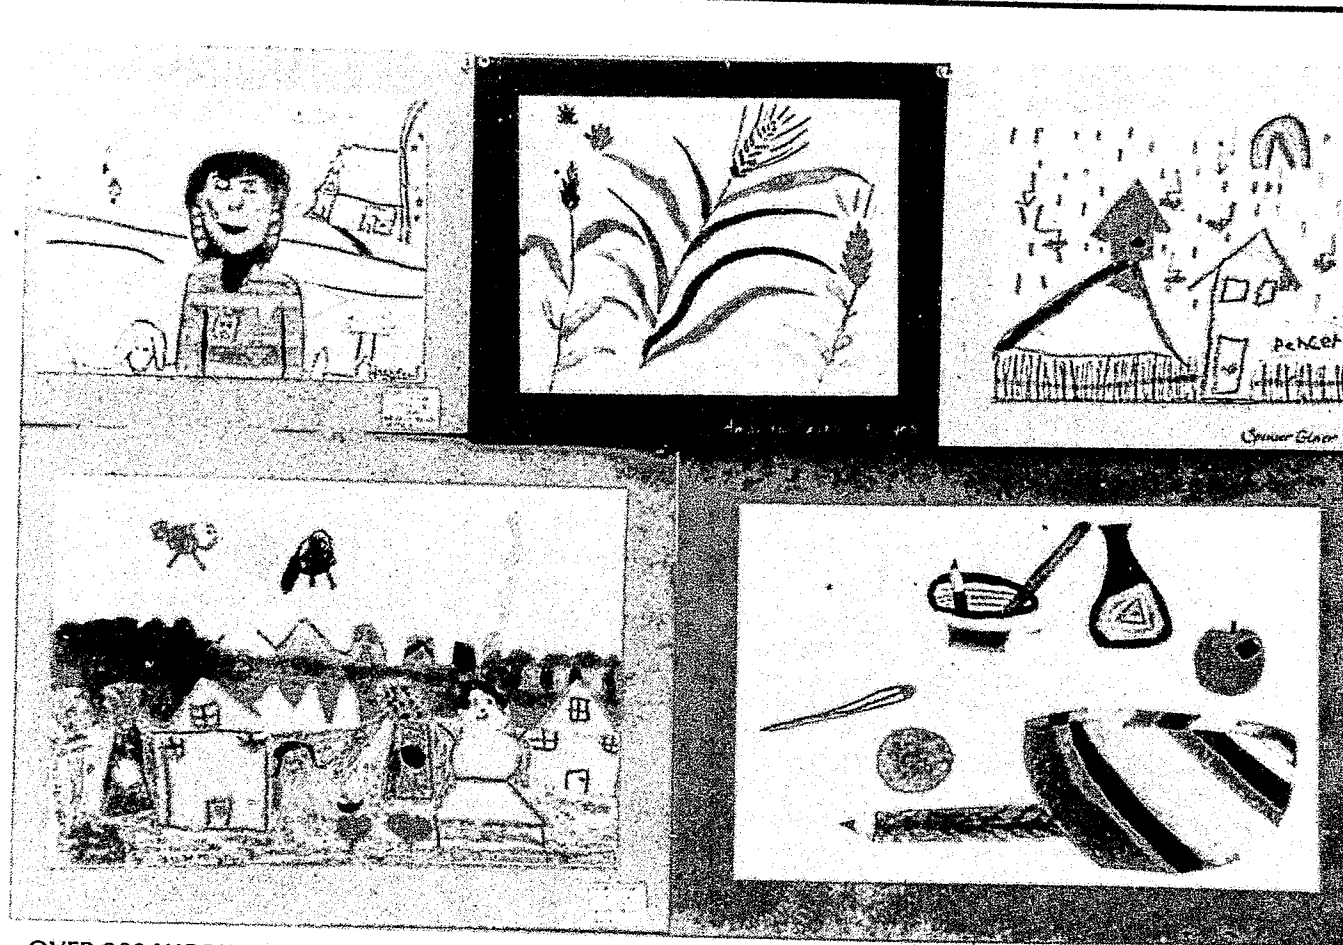

As we enjoy a pleasant Memorial Day weekend with Doug and Margaret, I am reminded of another May 30 of a few decades back when we threw rice and wished you two a happy life together. (If I think hard enough, I can even tell you what dress I wore.) So on the occasion of your 30th wedding anniversary, I send you congratulations and our wishes for continuous peace.

As friends, we have raised a happy lot (your four, our three), known sorrow, shared joys. We have lived and loved and grown, sometimes as neighbors, often at a distance. We have shared, cared, encouraged, listened and learned with, or to, or for, or from. In 30 years our two groups have exchanged tears and secrets and oh-so-many laughs. We seem to be a winning team.

Teamwork was the name of the game at the Grange meeting last week. Members of Winthrop Grange (Shelburne, N.H.) joined the Pleasant Valley (West Bethel) gang and guests from Franklin (Bryant Pond), Oxford, and even Worcester, Mass. Granges for a bountiful supper, a birthday cake for Richard Walker and Donald Vantour and a "down-home" meeting. The Winthrop Grangers provided the program, a potpourri of songs, readings and games—a "Beat the Clock." Everyone maintained a modicum of decorum as State Deputy Louis Bisbee presented a 70-year pin to Wilbur Davis and a 60-year pin and Golden Sheaf to Master Helen Saunders (Pleasant Valley).

Wilbur traveled from his home on the Flat Road in the company of his daughter, Arlene Lovell, for the occasion. He joined the Grange at the age of 17 and has maintained his membership for the past 70 years. He stood proud and a bit shy as he listened to the proclamation honoring him for his long years of service. Brother Bisbee declared it "a pleasure and an honor to present the certificate issued at Maine State Grange and signed by State Master Curtis Lombard and State Secretary Patricia Libbey." He also provided Wilbur with a 70-year seal to affix to his original Golden Sheaf certificate. Wilbur played an active role in the organization for many decades, filling various offices, and even today growing fruits and vegetables for the fair. To add to his pride, he was named "Dad of the Year" in advance of the first week of June.

Master Helen Saunders was surprised by the presentation of her Golden Sheaf. She was aware that this was her big year, having served 25 years in Winthrop Grange and the last 26 in Pleasant Valley Grange. But she didn't realize that the presentation was to be done at her meeting. Deputy Bisbee handed her the Golden Sheaf certificate "in recognition of 50 years of continuous membership." The certificate, issued by the National Grange of Patrons of Husbandry, certifies that "Helen Hayes Saunders has been enrolled in the permanent record of those who have devoted a half century of service to the order, to agriculture and to mankind." It came from Washington, D.C. and is signed by Master of National Grange Robert Barrow, and National Secretary Joanne Rassmone. Deputy Bisbee noted that, "We look to you with pride as you reach this milestone in your

OVER 300 WORKS OF ART BY CHILDREN in local elementary schools will be on display beginning this Friday, at the Moses Mason House. The artworks—some of which are pictured above—are the work of the students in the F.O.C.U.S. visual arts program in the district. The show will open with a reception, from 2 to 4 p.m. Thereafter, the display will be open to the public until June 9, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Grange journey." Helen's sister, Tillie Meyers, lecturer of the visiting Winthrop Grange, read the citation and assisted in the presentation.

The Hayes family was doubly deep in ceremony last week. Raymond and Helen (Hayes) Saunders traveled with Helen's sister, Dot (Hayes) Bean and Dot's son Harlan, of Norway, to Shelburne, N.H., for the dedication of a monument for the Chester C. Hayes (their uncle) Memorial Park. The recreation park was officially dedicated to the care of the town of Shelburne and will be used by its residents and will stand as a memorial to Chester, who dreamed of it and left an endowment to help fund it. Following the ceremony, the family gathered at the "Vindy Acres" home of David Wilson, for a cookout.

Dick Hosterman, meanwhile, attended a rather unique church "cook-in" last week, sandwiched between the afternoon and evening sessions of a seminar on solid waste. He and Bethel's planning assistant, Rockie Graham, participated in the UMF-based seminar of the Western Mountains Alliance that boasted such prominent panelists as representatives of the Land Use Regulation Committee (LURC), the Natural Resources Council, Maine Department of Agriculture, Norway/Paris Solid Waste and Auburn Energy Recovery, Inc. The issue at hand was "Managing Solid Waste in Western Maine" and the seminar served as a launch pad for ideas on regionalizing, recycling and long-range planning. Three ladies of a nearby church managed to serve up a tasty supper to the 75-80 in attendance, thus contributing to their "solid-waste" contemplations.

The "Walk-a-thon" fundraising event for physical education raised $102.50. The money will be used to support after-school programs.

Top money earner was Hana Seames, who did a great job. Other students who raised money were Erica Carson, Brian Inman, Parker Gray, Cathy Morgan, Robert Chapman, Wade Luxton, Kate Nickerson, Brett Harvey, Warren Thurston, Crystal Bonney and Ms. Howe's class. Thanks to all.

Fifth Grade students have been very involved with science projects and lessons.

On Thursday, May 19, the students had the annual science fair. The work the students did was phenomenal. Each student was responsible for a report, a poster and a model.

Mrs. Wheeler's class gave special recognition to the following students: First place, Adam Luxton for his study of dogs; second place, Jodi Barnes for the study on plants; third place, Joel Dakin for his work on gears; and honorable mention, Jessica Coolidge for her study of paper.

Mr. Hartford's class gave special recognition to the following students: First place, Lydia Grover for her work on light; second place, Cindy Wheeler for her study of clouds; third place, Anneliese Bass for her study of the fetus; and honorable mention, Kevin Marshall for his project on dinosaurs.

Miss Newcomb's class gave special recognition to the following students: First place, Jeff Angevine for his work on water power; second place, Daniel Wigley for his study on plants; third place, Leah Bonnema for her project on horses; and honorable mention, Amanda Sysko for her study on sheep.

On Monday, May 22, the 5th Grade science classes went to the Conservation Campus in Bryant Pond. They worked in groups and went from station to station. The stations included forestry, wildlife, web of life and soils.

After lunch they played environmental games before completing their stations. One was called "Oh deer, oh deer," and the other was called "Migration to extinction."

Many thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kuzyk for coming in to teach each Grade 5 science class on Thursday, May 19. Mr. Kuzyk brought along many neat fossil specimens, in addition to dozens of shark teeth. Each student received a shark's tooth to keep.

WINNERS IN THE RECENT CPS 5TH GRADE SCIENCE FAIR were, front row, left to right, members of Miss Newcomb's class: 1st, Jeff Angevine for his project on water power; 2nd, Daniel Wigley, growth of plants; 3rd, Leah Bonnema, horses; honorable mention, Amanda Sysko, sheep; 2nd row, Mr. Hartford's class: 1st, Lydia Grover, light; 2nd, Cindy Wheeler, clouds; 3rd, Anneliese Bass, fetal development; honorable mention, Kevin Marshall, dinosaurs.

Andover

For years some unknown person has been tending Princess Mollycockett's grave in the Andover cemetery. It has come to our attention that the person who has been putting the flowers on the grave is Helen Chase. At least one Andover resident wants to thank her for doing so.

Memories are very precious to all of us.

We, as parents and friends of the Class of 1989, will also be reminiscing about your school days at SAD #44. With a few tears and fond memories, we will say goodbye to a great group of kids.

Thank you for allowing us to share in these memories. Your love and friendship has meant a lot to both of us.

Congratulations and God bless you all.

From the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

Executive Director Robin Zinchuk reports as follows:

The Board of Directors met May 11 for their regular monthly meeting.

Shirley Hodson, a volunteer on the children's committee, reported on the preliminary results of the survey. She said there will be a public meeting June 13 to release completed results of the survey. More information on time and place will be released next week.

The Chamber is in the process of obtaining bids for our new brochure, which is planned to be a booklet style with a four-color cover.

Mollycockett Day plans were discussed further. The Chamber is planning to have a booth on the Common to sell lobster rolls, soft drinks and ice cream waffles. We are also planning to conduct the Mollycockett Day Classic, the five-mile road race with a one-mile fun race for children 14 years old and younger. Sponsors for the race this year are Jack Frost Ski Shop, Micholb, Seltzer and Rydholm and Central Maine Power. Road race applications will be available locally within a couple of weeks. This will be held Mollycockett Day morning, July 15, with registration starting at 7:30 a.m.

The Chamber has also confirmed

Tuesday, and a beautiful day for anyone to enjoy. A day for doing things outside and having the weather to do it. Peggy took advantage of it and helped clean our cars. I can't lift a vacuum as yet, so she did the heavy work and I helped a little by washing windows and helping clean things out of my car. She washed her own car after cleaning mine and Russell's out with the vacuum as well as hers. Couldn't have had better weather for it. Russell has been planting some things today but said the ground was still wetter than it should be to do much planting. However, with more rain predicted, he felt he might as well go ahead and do what he could. He said he was afraid if we got more rain the garden wouldn't be drying out any too fast so might as well do what he could.

We have been surprised as far as his glads are concerned. When we had that awful rain, it washed through the piece where he had set his glad bulbs out so we wondered how they would fair, but they are coming up so guess they didn't get hurt as bad as we had thought they might. Other plants are coming ahead in great shape and the rhubarb is growing so fast you can almost see it if you stop to watch it for a while. The bleeding heart is up and budding good. It will soon be a mass of blossoms and pretty to behold. I always look forward to seeing the bleeding heart blossom as it is so pretty.

Russell has worked around planting what he could this past week and had a lot of begonia plants to set out. Where they don't like the sun too well he wondered where to set them out and finally got his window box planted and made a new one and put it up on one of the buildings out back of the house, so if you are going by and see some lovely blossoms out there you will know what they are. He still has quite a few in plant pots at the end of the house by the cars, and they are doing well.

Peggy and Russell went to Greene to the dance last Saturday night and took a friend with them.

Sunday, Michael, my son-in-law, came up and got me to come down to stay until today as he had expected to be gone overnight last night. He is helping to set up a new store in York, but as they needed some things from his store in Auburn and some from the store in Lewiston, he and his friend came home and got what was needed and stayed the night then left early this morning. Nonie brought me home after getting Karlann to nursery school this morning.

We went to Lewiston last Friday night to watch the girls in their dance recital. The little ones are so cute when they perform and well worth the money it costs. They were glad to have us there to see them perform. It makes them feel better to have special folks there. They all did a good job, but we didn't stay very late. I am sure, after seeing the program. There are so many enrolled and some of them do more than one dance, which takes time. We enjoyed what we saw very much.

Greenwood Street Hillbillies 4-H Club held their nutrition day dinner Saturday at West Paris Grange Hall with their families attending. They served shepherd pies, corn bread, salads, chocolate cake and gingerbread with whipped cream, along with punch to drink.

Thanks to all the parents and grandparents for coming. There were a few aunts and uncles also, and we were glad to have them all. The final meeting of the club will be on June 6. The awards for the bowl-tion were also given at this time. Chris Coolidge had most money, which was $110.50. Justin Wormell had most sponsors; he had 28. Alicia Coolidge had the highest points, with 74. Mary Lovejoy, a leader, had the most sponsors of them, as she had 9. All the 4-H'ers ended up getting ice cream cones at Whitman's Market.

Thursday, Mary hosted a birthday gathering for Ashley, one of her little girls.

Sunday was closing day program for the Mission Congregational Sunday School.

Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Gray, of Norway, called on Impi Mack, her mother, and left her a birthday cake. On Sunday, Mary hosted a birthday gathering for Impi Mack and Joel Martino. Present were the following: Glen Virge, of Nashua, N.H.; Sonja and Victor Haverinen and Jenny, of South Paris; Marcia Baxter and the whole Lovejoy family.

Sunday evening, the Elias McKeens took Impi out for a birthday supper. Of course Raymond went along with them.

Glenn Virge, of Nashua, N.H., spent the weekend with the Lovejoys. He also called on Eleanor Emmons, on the Harrison Road.

Mary Lovejoy brought me down a few small African violet plants one day last week so I have them set out and they are doing well. Did a lot of my other plants at the same time so they look better and those that needed a new pot got them. Still have a number of small ones coming along to be done later.

There was a meeting of Alder River Grange on May 19, with seven members present. The charter was draped in honor of deceased member Francis Ward. The secretary said she had received eight applications to join the Grange. Balloting will take place at the next meeting.

Scott Haines and friend, Judy Jensen, Manchester, N.H., visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Haines, and grandmother, Mrs. Floribel Haines, on Mother's Day.

Robert Hastings was taken to the Stephens Memorial Hospital in Norway, May 14.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hastings visited Mr. and Mrs. Kitt Krichke in Portland, Ore., for two weeks the first of this month. They also toured Bend, Ore.

Mrs. Stephen Voljyskiak (Pamela) and Mr. and Mrs. John Kitteridge (Penny), of South Portland, visited Mr. and Mrs. Almon Coolidge on Mother's Day.

Reginald Andrews, of Halifax, Nova Scotia, has been visiting the Bartlett Homestead for a few weeks. He returned home after Memorial Day.

OXHILLS CHAMBER BREAKFAST
Workers' compensation and health care issues will be the topics for discussion between area legislators and Oxford Hills businesspeople at the breakfast meeting on Friday, June 2, at Country Way Restaurant, in South Paris.

Mrs. Ellen Coffin, of Norway, visited Mr. and Mrs. Chester Harrington on May 20. Mrs. Chester Kimball and Mrs. Andre Barner were in Norway one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Foster, of Andover, visited me on May 20. Albert Foster and I went with Mrs. Warren Smith, of Locke Mills, to attend the wedding of Michelle Crockett and Ronald Cary at the Locke Mills Church on May 21. It was a lovely wedding and they received many gifts when they went to the Legion Hall after the ceremony. John and David Foster, of Andover, called on me Thursday, May 25.

How beautiful out. The apple blossoms are now out. Bleeding heart, lily-of-the-valley and the trees have now leafed out with their various shades of green. I have not seen any ducks in the river since the flood, so hope that they went elsewhere and didn't get drowned or killed. The flowering crab in front of Homer and Edie Smith's house is a mass of lovely pink flowers. Up by the turnoff, Frank has grafted so one side of a flowering crab is light pink and the other side is a much darker shade of pink.

"Frankie" brought Theresa home with him May 20 and she and I put up the hammock in the back grove. Saturday, George Gibson went to a classmate's wedding. Then, after "Frankie" and Theresa left to take Theresa home, May 21, I drove to Readfield to visit my sister Marion and Ben Tucker Jr. Her son Robert and family visited, as well as her daughter Roxanne and family. Came home May 22 and on the way home stopped off at my friend Ruth Chouinard's, in Oxford, and we had a lovely visit. Wednesday, took a trip to North Bridgton to see Dr. Shedd. On the way home stopped off to see my sister Iva, in Norway, and Thursday had to go to Stephens Memorial Hospital in Norway to have tests. While waiting I saw another old friend, Marion Brown, so we had a chance to catch up on happenings. Frank came home before supper Thursday from his fishing trip and had invited Kristian and Ira Gibson over, so they had a chance to visit with Ira's father.

George and Betty Gilbert and Erland Waterhouse went to South Arm, fishing, Sunday.

Amy Hannon went to an overnight birthday party for Shilo Hutchins, May 20. The same day, Dan and Sally Hannon and Elaine Hutchins went to Mexico to watch Amy and Mary Beth Hannon and Shilo Hutchins play softball. Teister won. Frank and Sid Murphy went to Sid's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Greenberg, at Dracut, Mass., May 19 to 21. Saturday, Murphys and Greenbergs went to the University of New Hampshire, in Durham, N.H., to see Sid's nephew David graduate. Guest speaker was Alex Haley, author of "Roots."

Homer and Edie Smith had Sunday dinner guests, to help celebrate Andy's birthday, Shannon Fuller and Dennis and Kaylee Smith.

May 20, Bob Howe and family attended a birthday party for Suzanne Howe at Bud and Joan Howe's. May 21, Seth Howe attended a birthday party of his classmate Amanda McGrath, on the East Bethel Road, and the same evening Linda Howe attended the mother-daughter banquet with Evelyn Reed at the Methodist Church. A delicious buffet supper was served by Merton Brown and put on by the men of the church.

Joan Coolidge stayed overnight Monday with Sylvia Benson after Sunset Rebekah supper meeting. The lodge also had inspection and friendship night. The Thursday before Sylvia Benson spent the night with her daughter, Sharon Kimball, of Waterford, and came back Friday. Sylvia's granddaughter, Anita, was home from Bowdoin College. Robert Saunders was at his mother's, Pat Greig's, the weekend of May 13 to attend his uncle, Jack Morton's, wedding. Joyce Stearns is filling in for Phyllis

First 150 to sign up for Mollycoddett Classic will get free T-shirts

The annual Mollycoddett Day Classic—a five-mile road race for runners and a one-mile fun run for ages 14 and under—is planned for Saturday, July 15. The Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce announced that applications are now available at the Chamber office, #1 Video, Prim's, Mountain View Store, Bob's Corner Store and Mill's Market. Pre-registration is encouraged, as the first 150 registrants will get T-shirts. The sponsors this year are Jack Frost Ski Shops, Central Maine Power, Michelob and Seltzer and Rydholm (Pepsi products).

BIATHLON TRAINING AVAILABLE

Area residents interested in refining shooting and training skills for the sport of biathlon are invited to participate in a weekly Thursday evening biathlon practice at the Gould Academy Biathlon Center, off Grover Hill Road.

The informal practices will be run at 4:30 p.m. through the first half of summer, from June 1 through July 13. Rifles will be provided and ammo will be available for a minimal fee. A cookout will follow each practice, with a grill and utensils provided.

Junior cross-country skiers and others interested in further developing their biathlon skills are invited to attend a four-day biathlon camp at Gould Academy, July 5-8. Various skill levels will be accommodated. Past camps have included novices as well as international level junior competitors.

Activities include shooting, hiking, roller skiing, running, strength work and other skill training. The final day of the camp will coincide with the Maine Summer Biathlon Championships.

The Maine Summer Biathlon Championships will be run at the Gould Academy Biathlon Center on Saturday, July 8, at 10 a.m. A novice class, with instruction and rifles provided, will take place after the open race. Prizes will be awarded to the top finishers in each class.

For further information on summer biathlon in Maine, contact Kirk Siegel, U.S. Biathlon Association Regional Coach, 207-824-2195.

Blake at Ethel Bisbee school lunch program this last week.

John Landry has been visiting his father, Dr. Shaw, and family before his graduation from Trinity College, Hartford, Conn.

May 22, Judy Coolidge had all three 2nd grades of Ethel Bisbee for an ecology trip at her place and her folks', Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Angevine, who were amongst the helpers. All enjoyed a field trip and picnic.

Sunday, Alberta Angevine and Judy Coolidge and girls went to children's Sunday at the Congo Church, in which Jessica Coolidge was in the bell choir. Then Tuesday Jessica had her spring concert, which was put on by Grades 3, 4 and 5. The children did the Nifty-Fifties. Jessica danced and sang.

Karen Hughes has been spending some time with Joe and Gerry Shimamura. Karen has had surgery and so needed some help.

Alberta Angevine has dug enough dandelion greens to put up 20 pints. She was also kind enough to dig me a nice mess.

Mike, Debbie, Anthony and Michelle DeJulio have moved into Debbie Seames' trailer. Debbie is a sister to Dennis Smith's wife who lives on our road.

We also have new neighbors on the house up on the corner as you turn to our place. They are Arlan, Heidi, Jody and Julie, who have been living in Tennessee. Heide was a Bachelor from Newry.

Ernest and Alberta Angevine went to St. Pierre's Xmas Tree Plantation, Burgess Hill, Rumford, May 20, and in the evening visited Alberta's brother, Cecil, and Marion Abbott, in Andover.

MYER'S PUMP WATER FILTER SYSTEMS

Greenwood City

By COLISTA MORGAN

Early this morning the sky was a vast blue bowl that sat on the horizon without a tree or a mountain to dent its rim. Birds spiraled high, a sweet, sweet warbling song that seemed to spill out of the very sky.

Later I walked the woodroad. I stopped to smell the violets and was surprised to see how many bees and ants there were. A quarter of a mile from home I came to the crest of a hill and could see the whole rolling panorama of the valley. There were high rounded hills and shadowed lines of still higher hills beyond.

At the far side of the pond, several ducks came out of the reeds. They swam about, upending grotesquely from time to time to feed on something on the bottom.

Activities include shooting, hiking, roller skiing, running, strength work and other skill training. The final day of the camp will coincide with the Maine Summer Biathlon Championships.

The Maine Summer Biathlon Championships will be run at the Gould Academy Biathlon Center on Saturday, July 8, at 10 a.m. A novice class, with instruction and rifles provided, will take place after the open race. Prizes will be awarded to the top finishers in each class.

May 22, Judy Coolidge had all three 2nd grades of Ethel Bisbee for an ecology trip at her place and her folks', Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Angevine, who were amongst the helpers. All enjoyed a field trip and picnic.

Sunday, Alberta Angevine and Judy Coolidge and girls went to children's Sunday at the Congo Church, in which Jessica Coolidge was in the bell choir. Then Tuesday Jessica had her spring concert, which was put on by Grades 3, 4 and 5. The children did the Nifty-Fifties. Jessica danced and sang.

Karen Hughes has been spending some time with Joe and Gerry Shimamura. Karen has had surgery and so needed some help.

Alberta Angevine has dug enough dandelion greens to put up 20 pints. She was also kind enough to dig me a nice mess.

Mike, Debbie, Anthony and Michelle DeJulio have moved into Debbie Seames' trailer. Debbie is a sister to Dennis Smith's wife who lives on our road.

We also have new neighbors on the house up on the corner as you turn to our place. They are Arlan, Heidi, Jody and Julie, who have been living in Tennessee. Heide was a Bachelor from Newry.

Ernest and Alberta Angevine went to St. Pierre's Xmas Tree Plantation, Burgess Hill, Rumford, May 20, and in the evening visited Alberta's brother, Cecil, and Marion Abbott, in Andover.

Newry

By AMY HANSCOM

The Board of Selectmen met last Tuesday morning, Sigmund Sysko, chairman of the Solid Waste Committee, met with them. Several options for dealing with the solid waste problem are being studied. It is expected that an informational meeting will be held prior to July 1, to inform Newry residents what will be done after the Bethel landfill is closed to Newry on June 30. It is expected that door-to-door pick-up will be used, with the waste trucked to some out-of-town disposal site.

Much of the morning was spent in tax assessing and the afternoon was spent inventorying personal property at the Sunday River Ski Resort and checking condominiums there.

Work is progressing on perambulating the Newry/Andover West Surplus line. The assessors planned to work on assessing last Friday. Much of the work has been completed and is in the computer.

Gaye Ferrente, of Newcastle, visited her grandmother, Mary Tripp, and mother, Suzanne Hayner, recently.

Dr. and Mrs. William Carey, of Framingham, Mass., visited relatives in the area recently.

Several attended the public hearing on proposed ordinance changes at the town office Monday evening, May 22. The Solid Waste Committee and Growth Management Committee met at the town office May 23.

Mr. and Mrs. Verne Glover, of Hollis, spent several days at their camp last week.

Mr. and Mrs. James Paine and Methyl Paine, Mechanic Falls, were at their camp last weekend and called on Amy and Roger Hanscom.

The Newry Fire Department was called out at about 11 a.m. last Wednesday to a structure fire on Route 25. The small log cabin, owned by Richard Moore, of New Jersey, sustained damage to the gable end and roof at the rear of the building, according to Newry firefighter Willard Wight. There was also some smoke and water damage. Newry responded with two tankers/pumpers; the Bethel Fire Department also responded. No cause for the fire was given. The building was unoccupied. There was no estimate of damage.

Mr. and Mrs. Verne Glover, of Hollis, called on Amy and Roger Hanscom Wednesday afternoon.

The Ladies Circle will meet at the home of Freda Robertson, June 5, at 7:30 p.m.

Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Thelma Lowery, Louise Tetley, Gilberte Seelye, Eleanor Davis and Sylvia Wight were in Rumford bowling, May 23. Thelma was high on single, beating Louise by two points. Louise was high on triple.

On Saturday, June 3, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., the Windy Valleys Snowmobile Club will hold its annual spring lawn sale across from Bear River Cabins. Anyone interested in donating items please call Sylvia at 824-2220. Rain date will be Sunday, June 4, same time and place. Hope to see you all there. Bring your spare change. Tickets will be sold on a painting by Sue Wight, which will be displayed at the sale—raffle to be drawn in October.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Emery, of Westbrook, visited Joe and Muriel Gilbert recently.

Joe Deegan has been a patient at Rumford Community Hospital for a week. Leah expected to bring him home on Sunday.

I had been in South Paris on errands Friday afternoon and drove back in the downpour. Didn't have to stop, but everyone was driving much slower.

The lawns aren't growing slow, though. It is hard to get ahead of it.

Gould announces NHS inductees, and dorm proctors for 1989-1990

New inductees to the 1989 Gould Academy National Honor Society were named and student leaders for the 1989-90 school year were announced last week at an all-school assembly in Bingham auditorium.

Named to the National Honor Society for the first time were Jen Tabor, of East Corinth; Andrew Spoffard, of Bedford, Mass.; Alice Colyear, of Topsham; Kate Chester, of Bar Harbor; Bretton White, of Hampstead, N.H.; Heidi Dixon, of Bath; and Courtney Borell, of Harrison. Next year's 15 dorm proctors, who comprise the school's student leadership program, were also announced. Their selection was based on an evaluation of this year's juniors by the student body and the faculty. The students were rated on leadership, dependability, fairness and initiative. Their responsibilities will include assisting faculty in the supervision of dormitories, initiating student activities and leading the fall new student orientation camping trips.

Next year's proctors are Matt Karatz, of Los Angeles, Calif.; Blair Wood, of North Scituate, Mass.; Paul Koubek, of Damariscotta; Marty Hacker, of New York, N.Y.; Jacques Perelle, of Wakefield, R.I.; Kevin Davis, of Bethel; Oren Murphy, of Waldoboro; Tom Pena, of Boston, Mass.; Laura Hunter, of Stratham, N.H.; Bretton White, of Hampstead, N.H.; Jill Shapiro, of Falmouth; Jen Tabor, of East Corinth; Alice Colyear, of Topsham; and Kate Chester, of Bar Harbor.

Summer training offered for cross-country skiers

Maine high school skiers and their coaches interested in getting together for a day of training and socializing are invited to attend one of three training days to be held in Maine on the last Sunday of each month.

The informal sessions are open to cross-country skiers and coaches of all abilities. They are intended to be a forum for exchanging training and technique information. Activities will include hiking, cycling, running and roller skiing. The contact people are as follows: June 25, meet at the state highway rest area at the junction of Route 2 and the Sunday River Road. Activities will include hiking and/or roller skiing. For more information, contact Kirk Siegel at Gould Academy, 824-2131.

July 30, meet at Maranacook Community School on Route 17 in Readfield for a low-key bike ride and/or roller ski. For more information, contact Steve DeAngelis, 688-4006.

Aug. 27, meet at Northern Lights Ski Shop in Farmington. High School athletes who are already involved in intensive fall sports practices will enjoy a low-intensity day of roller ski technique and training instruction. All sessions will begin at 9 a.m. Participants should bring a bag lunch and plenty of liquids to drink.

State increases quota for any-deer permits

Commissioner Bill Vail and the Fish and Wildlife Advisory Council adopted Maine's 1989 deer hunting season dates and any-deer permit quotas at their recent meeting at the Augusta Civic Center.

The commissioner and council set the regular firearms season on deer to run from Oct. 30 to Nov. 25, preceded by Maine-residents-only day, on Oct. 28. The special archery season will be Oct. 1-27; and the muzzleloader season, Nov. 27 to Dec. 2.

The commissioner and council also accepted the Fish and Wildlife Department's proposal to increase the number of any-deer permits to 55,000 in 1989, up about 10,000 from 1988. That number of permits is expected to result in the killing of about 8,400 adult does, an increase of 1,400 over the total of 7,000 adult does killed last year.

Wildlife biologist Gerald Lavigne explained that "the increase in any-deer permits in some districts reflects higher available deer populations." He added that the number of does allowed to be killed will remain sufficiently conservative to produce an additional increase in the herd. This reflects a departmental strategy to allow the herd to increase at a controlled rate.

"It is our intention to maintain the size and condition of Maine deer and not merely produce a more abundant population at the expense of quality."

Lavigne adds, "In three districts, increases in any-deer permits were not recommended. District 17 in eastern Maine will remain bucks-only for the seventh consecutive year. Permit allocations in districts 11 and 15 were reduced slightly to allow deer populations to increase at a slightly higher rate than previously. The real strength of the any-deer permit system is that it allows us to refine the doe harvest in individual deer management districts without adversely affecting adjacent districts."

In other action, the council approved by a 6-2 vote the purchase of a tract of land known as the Dickwood Lake property in the township of Eagle Lake, in Aroostook County, with monies from the department's wildlife habitat acquisition bond issue. The purchase price for the approximately 4,000-acre tract was $700,000. The owner of the property is Emile LeBeour.

The Advisory Council also elected Dale Speed, of Princeton, as its chairman for the coming year. Alanson B. Noble, of Otsfield, was elected vice-chairman.

BETHEL SENIOR CITIZENS

The Senior Citizens' first trip of the season will be Thursday, June 22, to Glen, N.H., visiting the Heritage House, Scenic Railroad and shopping at the mall.

Songo Pond

By ALICE KIMBALL

A beautiful rainbow arched the southeastern sky last Sunday after the very heavy thundershowers.

Mr. Weston Flint and Mrs. Winona Verrill, of South Paris, visited Mrs. Elmira Doyen Sunday. John Hindman, of Windham, was an overnight guest Saturday and called on other relatives.

Monday, Mrs. Connie Hindman and Mrs. Elmira Doyen were in Rumford for a medical appointment and also to Farmington to visit some cemeteries.

Mrs. Christine Kimball attended an anniversary party in Norway Sunday for Lawrence Herrick. Visitors this week at Christine's were Herbert and Luba Barker, of South Paris, Mrs. Eva Barker, of Oxford, Mrs. Dot Quino, of Gorham, N.H., and Mrs. Barbara Blood of Lovell.

With daughter Alberta, Christine went to the North Norway Cemetery.

Arthur Kimball, now a patient at the Norway Convalescent Center, celebrated his 85th birthday Wednesday.

Over 100 friends and relatives attended graveside services of Jimmy Kimball at the Songo Cemetery last Saturday morning. Later they enjoyed fellowship and refreshments with Christine at her new home.

Many summer people are at their cottages this weekend cleaning up in and around them.

SOLID FOLLOW THROUGH—4th-grader Timmy Hebert shows great extension as he lofts a fly ball into play against Andover Elementary School. Timmy and his Woodstock Elementary School teammates prevailed in two games with AES last week. Due to a wet field at WES, the first game, shown here, was held at the town ballfield on Route 26. As is the custom, many fans parked along the shoulder of the road—a practice Woodstock officials are trying to outlaw.

MOVING ALONG THE RUNNER—Telstar's Kristen Cushman lays down a sacrifice bunt in action against Dirigo last week. However, a late-inning Cougar rally edged the home team, 11-9, ending a five-game win streak. The Rebels, 12-3 on the season, head into playoff action next week, where they'll probably have a chance for revenge against the Cougars, their likely first-round opponent.

Woodstock School

From the desk of the principal:
The Woodstock Elementary School curriculum fair held on Wednesday, May 24, was wonderful. There were projects representing each area of the curriculum. I wish to thank all students and their parents for the hard work which was contributed to make this curriculum fair the successful event it turned out to be.

May 25 and 26 was the 6th Grade trip to Boston. We have been planning, fundraising and looking forward to this experience for quite some time. Next week, look for a report from the travelers. I'm sure they'll have lots of exciting news to tell us.

We have once again come to the end of the year's activities. It doesn't seem possible that the 1989-90 school year is coming to a close. Please make sure you are reading the events of the week at Woodstock Elementary School to keep up with our busy schedule.

OXFORD POMONA GRANGE

A supper preceded the meeting held at Bear Mountain Grange in South Waterford as Oxford Pomona Grange met for its May meeting.

Members of the Pink Sash family recognized were Ruby Whitney, member of the State Grange C.W.A., and her husband Clyde; Hazel Conant, State Grange treasurer; Lewis and Myrtle Bisbee, deputies; and Gail Butterfield, member of the lecturer's committee.

Anna Woodworth, chairman of the legislative committee, spoke on several bills and legislative hearings that were coming up, one of which was to do away with county government. Arland Farrar spoke on a bill for local gun control.

C.W.A. Chairman Lil Swallow reported that that committee had donated prize money for the State Grange sewing contest and had also sent a donation to the hospital chaplaincy. She reminded members of needlework, quilting, knitting and stuffed toy contests that run through August.

Deaf Activities Chairman Bertha Benoit asked members to turn in used hearing aids and batteries and used eyeglasses.

Get-well cards were signed for Shirley Thomas and Jean Vancour, and a sympathy card was signed for Linda Jack and family.

The Youth Committee donated to the State Grange investment in Youth. Pomona members are urged to participate in the foodless food sale, a money raising project to benefit the Grange Cottage at the Hinckley School. Money should be turned in to the Pomona secretary by June 27.

The lecturer presented the following program, with Lewis Bisbee giving the address of welcome and Richard Felt the response. Musical selections were performed by Dot Canwell at the piano and Richard Felt on harmonica.

Arland Farrar told a humorous story. Mystery package winners were Elizabeth Bragg, Arland Farrar, Paul Billings, Elizabeth Foster and Cly Whitney. Dot Canwell won the attendance drawing. Marian Bennett read the closing thought, "Trusting," and the Grange joined in singing "God be with you."

There were 48 in attendance, with Franklin Grange, Bryant Pond, winning the attendance banner.

The memorial service will be presented at our next meeting, June 6.

Bethel Bancorp posts record profits for year

Jim Delamater, president and CEO of Bethel Bancorp, announced that the company achieved record earnings for its fiscal year ending April 30.

Net income for the year ending April 30, 1989 was $1,000,514, or $2 per share, versus $888,850, or $1.70 per share, for the year ending April 30, 1988. This represents an 18 percent increase.

Net income for the fourth quarter ending April 30, 1989 was $272,320, or $.51 per share, versus $221,557, or $.42 per share for the same period last year. These results have Bethel Savings Bank F.S.B., a wholly owned subsidiary of Bethel Bancorp, ranked among the top performing savings banks in the country.

"Core earnings and overall asset quality continue to be strong, and management is very optimistic about the future," Mr. Delamater said.

Bethel Bancorp, which trades on the NASDAQ system under the symbol BTHL, last year declared $.32 per share in dividends to stockholders.

Bethel Savings Bank F.S.B. is an FDIC-insured federal savings bank with its main office in Bethel and branches in Harrison, South Paris and Rumford.

Chamber sponsors beautification contest; part of Maine Street 90

All businesses in the Bethel area are invited to put their best effort into beautifying their properties this summer.

The Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce, in conjunction with Governor's Maine Street 90 campaign—a campaign to encourage community pride—will hold a beautification contest. All businesses, whether they are members of the Chamber or not, who would like to enter, should call the Chamber by June 5, at 824-2522, to register.

The following area greenhouses and garden shops will be offering discounts to those businesses that do register: The Unicorn Flower Shop and Garden Center, Hearty Moms, Pooh Corner Farms and Greenhouses and Mountain Greenery.

The judging, which will be some time the first week of July, will be based on qualities such as overall appeal and work/effort involved. There will be prizes awarded, such as a dinner for two at The Bethel Inn, as well as others.

at Frederick Robie Grange, Otisfield Gore. A 6:30 supper will precede the meeting.

On June 27 we will meet at Bear River Grange, in Newry, for the election of officers, with a supper before the meeting.

Effectively Reduce Blood Pressure
Many of America's 60 million hypertensives take prescription medicines to help control their blood pressure. These medicines work in a variety of ways to keep the pressure at a reasonable level. Some medicines dilate blood vessels, causing a drop in the pressure. Other types inhibit special nerve receptors located in the brain. A third category includes medicines which reduce blood pressure by affecting either the amount of blood pumped out of the heart or the amount that is pumped back to the heart.

Another category of medicines that effectively reduce high blood pressure are called ACE inhibitors. These medicines prevent the formation of angiotensin, a substance which tends to raise the blood pressure. ACE inhibitors, such as captopril and enalapril, have received a lot of attention because of their high degree of effectiveness, especially when taken with diuretics. The overall low incidence of side effects for ACE inhibitors is low.

In a study of over 600 men with high blood pressure, those treated with an ACE inhibitor had significantly higher "quality-of-life" scores (e.g., work performance and general well being) than did those receiving other types of medicines.

Elderwood Manor Items

by Florence Hall
Tenants at the Manor have been planting their flower gardens.

Bus riders to Rumford on Wednesday were Catherine McGuire and Elizabeth Sennett.

Alma Hevey is with her daughter, Louise Powell, in Hale, after being discharged from Rumford Hospital.

Elizabeth Sennett's niece, Blanche Fisherbert, drove her to Rumford on Thursday for a doctor's appointment.

Catherine McGuire and daughter Gloria Madison spent the weekend at the farm.

Florence Hall has received, from a new-found cousin, Marcelle Marston Wakefield, Janna, N.C., many very old items made by their great and great-grandmothers. There are quilts and linens, all hand-made in the 1800s.

Thought for the day: Of all the things you wear, your expression is the most important.

JAZZ CONCERT THURSDAY

The "Friends of Jazz," a jazz combo featuring trombonist Tim Sessions, of Temple, will present a concert at Oxford Hills High School on Thursday, June 1, at 7 p.m., in the auditorium. This public concert is being held in conjunction with "RazzleDazzle," a two-day enrichment program held at the Guy E. Rowe School.

The program involves all the students at the school and in addition to the "Friends of Jazz," the "Energize us" dancers and the "Oxford Hills High School Jazz Ensemble," well known author, artist, musician and storyteller Ashley Bryan is in residence at the school for the two-day event.

All are invited to the "Friends of Jazz" concert. Donations will be accepted to defray expenses.

"God's word." II Tim. "The sure foundation of God."
Closing hymn: "Room at the cross for you."

After the service a dinner was served. Our thanks to Tina Farrington for the decorations, using the school colors, the cake which was decorated to honor them and all the others who made this so colorful.

June 4, as of this date, the Sunday morning service and junior church will be from 9:30-10:30 a.m. followed by coffee and donuts.
Vacation Bible School, June 26-30, 9-11:30 a.m. with the closing program June 30 at 5:30-6:30 p.m.

Drawing June 14 for moose permits

Maine's 1989 moose hunters will be determined at a public drawing on Wednesday, June 14, at the Augusta State Armory.

Nine hundred Maine residents and 100 non-residents will have their applications selected from a total expected to exceed 75,000, according to the Maine Fish and Wildlife Department.

The drawing will begin at 5:30 p.m., preceded by leading and mixing of application cards in a rotating drum.

The department will again use young volunteers from the audience to pick the winners.

The deadline was April 28 to apply for a permit for the Oct. 18-21 hunt, which is held annually in northern, western and eastern portions of the state.

June 28, Missionary Jerry Mattson will be with us at 7:30 p.m.

LEARNING ABOUT NATURE—5th-graders from Crescent Park School spent last Monday at the Conservation School in Bryant Pond. Above, instructor Denise Roderick teaches them about the growth habits of trees.

WILD ABOUT ICE CREAM—Steve Pitchford is all smiles as he wraps his hand around a cold frosty one—a gourmet ice cream sundae put together by Karen Friedlander. Karen serves up the Haagen Daz delights at the newly opened Wild Cravings gourmet ice cream shop, located at the Unicorn Garden Center, on Rte. 26, across from Telstar. The shop also features a line of low-calorie frozen yogurt.

Through a 10-year-old's eyes

By ALEX GILLIES

This week we went on two field trips. The first one was on Monday. We ran around getting ready and rode to the Conservation School in Bryant Pond. We were there by 9 and split into five to eight groups (I can't remember how many). We went with different "classes". A different person taught each one. There was a class on soil, the food web, wildlife and trees. It was fun and I learned a lot.

The second was on Wednesday when we drove for two hours to get there. Half of the people on the bus were asleep. When we got there we broke into groups of five or six. We were divided in half and the half I was in went to a house first. We toured the house seeing what the furniture and their life was like. Then we went to a toypshop, a bank, a barbershop, a school, a wagon shed and a bicycle. Then we had lunch and drove home.

The mosquitoes are driving me crazy. They attack your head, ankles and hands like mad. But they are really slow and I bet the population of mosquitoes is going down quite quickly. But there are always tons of babies.

My father would like to remind you that Father's Day is coming. Make your fathers happy. Make sure you don't forget the most important holiday in the year. Ha, Ha.

Greenwood woman certified as foster parent

Maine Department of Human Services Commissioner Rollin Ives recently announced that several Oxford County foster parents have achieved the designation of "certified foster parents," which places them in the top 5 percent of licensed foster parents in Maine. Among them is Nancy Haines, of Greenwood.

According to Commissioner Ives, a certified foster parent must have completed 42 hours of advanced training in such areas as the sexually abused child, alternative discipline, grief and separation, and child development. Certification is valid for two years. A foster parent can renew it during that time by completing at least 12 additional hours of courses relating to foster-parenting skills.

Mr. Ives said the certification program formally acknowledges foster parenting as a profession and recognizes the skill and dedication that such individuals exhibit in becoming a certified foster parent.

"It's time that our foster parents receive their full measure of respect as professionals in their field," he said. "Caring for abused and neglected children is difficult in itself, but putting in extra hours of study and sacrifice to

Middle School step-up program for parents

On Thursday, June 1, the parents of all 6th and 7th-graders will have an opportunity to participate in a workshop sponsored by the Telstar Middle School guidance department.

The program will begin at 7 p.m. in the Telstar library. Parents will have the opportunity to share their concerns, hear from team leaders and volunteer for activities in the fall.

All parents of Crescent Park, Andover and Woodstock students entering Telstar Middle School in the fall are encouraged to attend this information program.

New students will be experiencing a day at Telstar Middle School on Friday, June 2, and as a parent you can assist your youngster in a smooth transition to adolescence.

Below are the bus assignments for students going to the middle school for Step-Up Day.

Bus #2 (Paul Bedwell): Buck, David; Mathias, Kelly; Westleigh, Wednesday; Wigley, Darren.

Bus #5 (Pat Carter): Barnes, Jodi; Coolidge, Jessica; Coriveau, Monica; Howard, Leroy; Mason, Alan; Mason, Charles IV.

Bus #7 (Robert Hutchins): Chadburn, Keith; Crockett, Jarrod; Poland, Samantha.

Bus #17 (Evelyn Morin): Fowler, Matthew; Stowell, Sarah.

become the best is truly outstanding." Nancy Haines and her husband, John, have been licensed for nearly four years.

She believes that perhaps the most important role of a foster parent is to enable the children to understand their pain, to let them know that it's all right to cry, to be angry. The foster parent teaches the children how to deal appropriately with that anger. That takes a long time, she says, and is sometimes never fully accomplished. In any event, enabling such children to feel safe is a worthy achievement.

WEST BETHEL Children's Center

We've been busy reviewing basic skills. Activities have been focused on colors, numbers and shapes. Through stories, music and a variety of activities we heightened our awareness of these concepts.

We also went to Gilead to visit the National Guard. The children were really excited and full of anticipation. We enjoyed a lengthy tour of the grounds and buildings. We were introduced to a wide variety of camouflage vehicles that the troops use. Five-year-old Ryan Wheeler, who was dressed in camouflage from head to toe, was pinned within minutes of our arrival. We would like to thank parent volunteers Bertha and Doreen for joining us.

Our most recent "Star of the Week" was Francis Westleigh Jr. "Frankie" is four years old and lives in Bethel with his parents, Sally and Francis, and his sister, Sheryl. This is Frankie's second year attending the Children's Center.

Bus #18 (Cindy Walker): Angevine, Jeffrey; Bass, Anneliese; Dakin, Joel; Laughton, Matthew; Moore, Nathan; Parker, Casey; Wheeler, Cindy; Wilson, Briana.

Bus #22 (Brenda Blaisdell): Kavanagh, Callin; Levesque, Angela; Meader, Billie; Perkins, Gabriel; Fond, Christopher; Seames, Ryan.

Book donations sought to honor Ron Lippitt

The Bethel NTL Liaison Committee, in cooperation with the library, has established a shelf of books in memory of Ronald Lippitt, educator, pioneer in the study of group behavior and future-oriented planning and friend of Bethel. Professor Lippitt was one of the founders of the National Training Laboratories (now NTL Institute) which first met in Bethel in 1947. He studied and taught in Bethel every summer for the rest of his life. Future-oriented planning, (he called it "futuring"), was a passion of his later years and his last (and lasting) contribution to the community was conducting a community futuring workshop in 1988. This stimulating experience led to the successful Citizens Community Conference of October 1987. The shelf of books has been started with a very modest collection of some books that he wrote in collaboration with others. It is the hope of the committee that individuals may wish to contribute additional books in his memory. Books by Professor Lippitt or about him and his work would be particularly suitable, as would be books dealing with his fields of interest, such as community planning.

Christine Gauthier and Mark Woodruff

CHRISTINE GAUTHIER TO WED

Mrs. Jacqueline Gauthier, of Bethel, is pleased to announce the engagement of her daughter Christine to Mark R. Woodruff, of Sanford. Ms. Gauthier is also the daughter of the late Arthur Gauthier. Mr. Woodruff is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Woodruff, of Chester, N.J.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of the University of Maine at Orono and is currently employed as a civil engineer at Stevens, Morton, Rose and Thompson, in Portland.

The prospective groom is also a graduate of the University of Maine at Orono. He is a teacher at Sanford High School.

A July wedding is planned.

NEWS FROMAndover Elementary School*A.P.T./Room Parents:

On Monday, May 22, a combined APT/Room Parent meeting was held. The main topic of discussion was the possibility of manning a booth(s) during the Old Home Days to lessen the need for fund-raising next year. Margie Bartlett will look into obtaining the dunk tank or the jail. Other booths may be a lemonade/popsicle stand and the sale of Andover T-shirts. Peggy Madigan will check into reserving space on the common.

Room parents for the 1988-89 school year are as follows: Margie Bartlett, Grade 6; Peggy Madigan, Grade 6; Margaret Emerson, Grade 5; Anna Thurston, Grade 4; and Mary Richardson, Grade 3.

Locke Mills

By LORRAINE MILLS

Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Bennett were in Farmington a week ago Saturday to attend the commencement exercises at the University of Maine, Farmington, where their son, Professor Dean B. Bennett, received the distinguished Scholar Award for his work in the study of Environmental Education.

The Greenwood Fire Department Auxiliary provided the supper for the Association of Postal Workers at the Locke Mills Union Church, Wednesday evening. The proceeds from the supper were $212.

Ralph Mills, of Colchester, Vt., plans to leave at the end of next week on a two-week vacation to Michigan with some of his buddies from the local gun club. They will be attending a shoot in Michigan during part of the time.

Vera Cross has come down with another cold. It seems as if she was plagued enough by this winter but I'm sure the unstable weather conditions are not helping those prone to respiratory infections.

The Greenwood Fire Department was called out Friday afternoon to extinguish a brush fire between Abbotts' Anchorage and Littlefield Beaches. Once again a train going through was the cause. One would think with all the rain we've had things would be damp, but if you've stepped into the woods lately you know how dry it is underfoot.

My cats get a lot of mileage one way or the other. John Ludlam, Pastor Van Horn and my husband John, were just getting home from retreat Saturday afternoon when my big Garfield (well-named, except he's grey-brown, not orange) caught sight of Vera coming around the corner of her house. Vera and her niece were in the process of taking down the storm windows and had left one standing upright near the corner. Garfield, being rather skittish when outdoors—even around people he knows, made a mad dash to what he thought was safety. The cat went crashing through one of the panes in the window and apparently never faltered in his flight. He's fine, but now I owe Vera a pane of glass, installed; and the pastor had his Sunday sermon, "What price deception?" complete with a ready-made sermon illustration.

The Greenwood Fire Department will meet Tuesday, June 6, at 7 p.m. at the fire station.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Society building on Main Street.

The Locke Mills Union Church Sunday School will recess for the summer.

Those missing no more than two Sundays received attendance pins and bars. Those were Crystal Chase, Dustin Howe, Todd Swan, Tony Jordan, Lisa Haines, Keith Haines, Kim Brown, Alyssa Howe, Rebekah Howe, Jenny Stevens, Jimmy Haines, Mari Ann Nadeau, Naomi Young, Danny Stevens, Kelly Rosenberg, Eli Young, Becky Swan, Michelle Beagan and Alia Brown. Those missing more than two Sundays received a certificate of attendance. Those were Shelby Swan, Hana Seames, Luke Martin, Will Seames, Jeffrey Tyler, Candace Berryment, Nick Smith and Danny Smith.

May 30 seems a good day for birthdays. Your correspondent's father, Charles Swan, of Fryeburg, has a birthday on that day, as well as my nephew Carl Colby, of West Greenfield, and a friend, Diane Thurston, of Albany. Many happy returns all.

GEORGIA DALE MACARTHUR
Mrs. Georgia Dale MacArthur, 69, of Gilead, died Friday, May 26, 1989, at the Androscoggin Valley Hospital, Berlin, N.H., after a brief illness.

She was born in Berlin, N.H., Dec. 25, 1919, the daughter of Louis and Gladys Treanor Dale. She graduated from Berlin High School in the Class of 1938 and had lived in Gilead since 1953. Her husband, Woodrow MacArthur, died in 1982. Prior to her retirement, Mrs. MacArthur was employed at the Newton and Tibbets mill for 22 years. She was a member of the Bethel Senior Citizens.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Paye Palmer of Florida, Mrs. Nancy Valliere of Lumberton, N.C., and Mrs. Beverly Brown of Sabattus; a sister, Mrs. Ava Tyler of Gorham, N.H.; 12 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held May 28 in the Chapel of the Bryant Funeral Home, Berlin, N.H. Interment was in the Gilead cemetery.

IN CEREMONIES AT LOCKE MILLS, members of the Jackson-Silver Post of the American Legion led a parade through the center of the village, winding up at the honor roll. There, Auxiliary President Norene Russo placed a wreath at the memorial. Following that, Auxiliary Chaplain Fannie Cummings threw a bouquet of lilacs into the mill stream behind the honor roll in memory of those servicemen lost at sea.

IN BRYANT POND, as is the custom, local kids joined the Memorial Day parade, together with members of the Jackson-Silver Post and the Telstar Marching Band, from the honor roll to the cemetery. The entourage also took part in ceremonies in Andover. In West Paris, however, although the Oxford Hills Junior High School Band had been prepared to march, a parade never took place, because no one came forward to organize it.
